TWO-DAY NATIONAL WORKSHOP ON KOHA ILS

Organized by

PROVIDENCE WOMEN'S COLLEGE, CALICUT

Venue: CENTRAL LIBRARY

ABOUT US

The Central Library of Providence Women's College is a hub for reading, learning, and experiencing the largest collection of learning resources in the arts, humanities, commerce, science, social sciences, and technology. The library supports the research and educational needs of students, research scholars, and the faculties of the college. The library provides need-based services and orientation for accessing online information resources using modern information and communication technologies.

The library started functioning at the inception of the college in 1952 with a minimum of books and facilities. In 2023, the library moved into a 42,000-square-foot multifunctional library building with modern infrastructure. The ambience of the library is appealing and user-friendly, and it is automated with the latest software and Wi-Fi network.

The library is automated with the Koha Open Source Integrated Library Management System (ILMS). The library is using the Dewey Decimal Classification (DDC) system to organize the knowledge collection, and Dspace software is used for institutional repository service. The library has a good collection of documents on all subjects, and the total collection of books is around 60,500. The Library has membership in the INFLIBNET, NLIST, and Delnet consortiums and accesses more than 6,000 e-journals from them. The library is individually subscribing to both Indian and foreign journals and magazines. The library is regularly updating the new arrivals of books and journal issues for students and faculty members. Regular orientation programs are given to library members. The timing is 9 a.m. to 4.30 p.m. All the students, faculty, and staff are members of the library.

About the Workshop

The Koha Open Source Integrated Library Management System (ILMS) is designed to oversee various library tasks, including acquisition, cataloging, circulation, serial control, and online public access cataloging (OPAC). The workshop on Koha-ILMS is designed to enhance the knowledge and skills of LIS professionals and students from beginner to expert level. The workshop will provide hands-on training on the Koha, which aims to provide basic knowledge and skills to participants.
